DACA Recipients Need Your Support

In the midst of this global pandemic, DACA recipients shouldn’t have to worry about losing their protection from deportations. They shouldn’t have to worry about losing their jobs, their health care, or their families and our communities shouldn’t have to worry about losing these talented young people.

Many DACA recipients, and even more undocumented immigrants, are among America’s essential workers who risking their lives on behalf of the health and safety of others. Nearly 30,000 DACA recipients are a vital part of healthcare teams in cities and rural areas across this country. Upending their immigration status and creating fear of deportation right now would be unnecessarily cruel to them, and harmful to our communities.

This virus has shown us that we really are just one human family. No matter where we come from or what we look like, we all need to come together and demand the testing, treatment, and protection we all need to get and stay well.

Please call the White House (202-456-1111) and urge, that in the light of the COVID-19 pandemic, President Trump instruct the U.S. Customs and Immigration Service (USCIS) to automatically extend DACA renewals that expire in 2020 and end any threat of deportation.
